

COMFORTDELGRO LAUNCHES WORLD'S FIRST TAXI-HOTEL CHARGE CARD WITH THE REGENT SINGAPORE

10 June 2010 – From today, guests staying at The Regent Singapore will no longer need to fork out cash for their taxi rides. Instead, all they have to do is flash a card to the taxi driver and wait to receive the bill at the end of their hotel stay.

Called the Hotel Cabcharge card, the new offering by ComfortDelGro is a world's first. Hotel guests are given the option of applying for the card when they check in. Guests then present it at the end of any Comfort or CityCab taxi trip and the fare details will be sent electronically to the hotel billing system. Guests then pay the taxi fares as part of the final hotel bill when they check out.

A 10 percent administrative fee is chargeable on top of the metered fare.

ComfortDelGro took about three months to integrate its Cabcharge card system to The Regent's reservation and billing system.

Said Mr Yang Ban Seng, ComfortDelGro CEO (Taxi Business): "Till now, our taxi Cabcharge cards are used by our frequent customers and corporate users. With this "charge taxi fares to hotel room" service, we are reaching out to hotel guests who may not carry a lot of local currency, and business travellers who want all their expenses in a single hotel bill."

Mr Martin Sinclair, General Manager of The Regent Singapore said: "We are constantly looking at new ways to provide our guests with added conveniences and are very excited about this new product. We believe that this safe and convenient payment option will be welcomed by our guests who require multiple taxi rides during their stay in Singapore."
